

I am in favor of a rule which would require every television and radio station to redord all programming from 6 a.m. to 10 p.m. and hold onto the recordings for for a minimum of 60 days. I find the excuse of cost to be rediculous. If the program is pre-recorded there is no problem. If the progrm is live, it would appear to be only good business to record the program. The stations need to take responsibility for the language and images they send out to the public.
